

Year 3-4 week ending 3.2.23

English: Hercules is the focus of our writing this half term. We had fun and learning this week as we acted out the first three labours. We thought about our story, what the setting was and how each problem was resolved.

Fractions have continued to be very tricky this week!

Great progress by everyone this week as we investigated how to make a whole and continued with that tricky problem solving.

We have been doing lots of practice on our times tables and how they can help us with our fraction work.

Computing continues to be fun. We have been using a programme on our I pads to write our surnames!

It is proving to be quite tricky but we are enjoying seeing the end result!

Please continue to practice times tables, through rock stars , super movers or your games – it's so important and makes a huge difference to our learning in maths.

Islam has been our focus in RE this week. We have been looking at the Qur'an and its importance. We have looked at the messages that it provides. We have examined how the holy book is handled and carefully looked after.

We have further investigated it's contents and the language that it is written in.
